Sheena Daugherty

Otherwise Uninteresting Things

These images were compiled throughout my daily life, capturing moments that drew my attention while I was doing otherwise uninteresting things. Because sometimes what surrounds us goes unrecognized. There is a failure to slow down and examine. A failure to acknowledge that the quiet moments have value. They have depth. They have purpose. Details from the three dimensional world are flattened onto the two dimensional surface, shifting both context and perception. This leaves an opening for interpretation and reflection, and an opportunity to place emphasis on what may alternatively be lost amongst the noise.

Image List:

1. Installation view, Jack Olson Gallery, DeKalb, IL

2. Cover, 2017
   Archival Inkjet Print
   31.5 in x 21.5 in

3. Drape, 2017
   Archival Inkjet Print
   31.5 in x 21.5 in

4. Copy, 2017
   Archival Inkjet Print
   31.5 in x 21.5 in

5. Imprint, 2017
   Archival Inkjet Print
   31.5 in x 21.5 in

6. Creep, 2017
   Archival Inkjet Print
   31.5 in x 21.5 in