BANKRUPTCY FORUM

Constitutional Chaos:

Rodrock v. Security Industrial Bank

Thorp Finance Corporation v. Gifford 167

Richard L. Merrick

An extensive analysis of the history of bankruptcy law in order to show that the Rodrock and Gifford decisions were incorrect in their analysis of "value" which exceeded time-honored constitutional and common law limitations.

Report and Recommendations 239

Consumer Bankruptcy Subcommittee of the Committee on Consumer Financial

Services of the American Bar Association

The Subcommittee suggests that bankruptcy law can be made consistent with income-based consumer credit practices, stemming the tide of bankruptcy losses.

The Potential for Post-Discharge Lien

Survival: Problems Surrounding Sections

506(d) and 524(a) of the Bankruptcy

Code of 1978 285

Andrew J. Schmid

Because of the ambiguities surrounding the discharge injunction, the author suggests that section 506(d) should be recognized by the bankruptcy bar for its value in preventing attachment of inchoate liens, impairing the debtor's "fresh start."

Educational Loans in Bankruptcy 325

Lawrence Kalevitch

An analysis of judicial treatment of student loans in bankruptcy proceedings, with special emphasis on four particular problem areas.
